Board Lets Lord Back In Spring Valley Schools

Prayers and other religious material found in state text books will be used in schools in the La Mesa-Spring Valley district even though their use is apparently in violation to the Supreme Court's interpretation of sections of the U.S. Constitution.

Trustees of the district were unanimous in their decision Monday night at a crowded meeting as they passed the first part of a four-part resolution concerning use of the prayer as either a part of the instruction or as religious exercises in the classroom.

The first part announced that the board had no authority to change the textbooks and teachers had no choice but to use the materials. Recently, the state Board of Education and Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of schools, ruled likewise. The book in particular is a kindergarten text that includes a simple verse of thanks which drew objections from the American Civil Liberties Union. The ACLU took the position that such prayers, if used in schoolrooms, are in violation of the U.S. Constitution.

County Counsel Bertram McLees submitted a six-page legal opinion to the district Dec. 9 in answer to its request for a ruling on the ACLU complaint.

He advised the Board that the use of verses, songs, prayers or other material that apparently is used as a religious exercise is contrary to the Constitution.

Board members were said to feel that the opinion and the state text requirements are in conflict but LM-SV schools have been directed to use prayer material as long as it is in the state texts.

The issue was handed back to McLees with a request that he rule on the constitutionality question.

The prayer in question is a four line verse in Ginn's "Kindergarten Book".

McLees had opined that the use of verses or songs when intended as prayers or other religious exercises is prohibited by the constitution.

The meaning of the "religious exercise" phrase led to much of the board's debate.

The meeting was held at the La Mesa Elementary school auditorium. More than 250 attended and the meeting was picketed by persons who reportedly represented the S.D. Patriotic Society. The placards they carried denounced the ACLU. The Patriotic Society said later that the picketers were not members of the organization.

The meeting lasted into Tuesday morning and only two parts of the four-part resolution were discussed.

Text of one part of the resolution is:

"Recognizing that this board has no power to delete or change any material in state textbooks and that our teachers have no choice but to use the materials therein, we hereby require our teachers to use all materials contined in our state textbooks."

The other part of the resolution:

"Other than material found in state textbooks, this board does not direct or require, nor does it prohibit or prevent, any nonsectarian prayer, as long as no student is in any way compelled to participate.

"We declare that, in our opinion, according to the best interpretation of the U.S. Supreme Court, it is legal to permit the recitation of nonsectarian prayers in our classrooms on a voluntary basis. We believe this strengthens the moral and spiritual foundation upon which our nation is built."

Local Firms Plan Safety Check Lane

A safety program to encourage local motorists to keep the various parts of their cars functional is scheduled for Lemon Grove in February.

Members of auto industry firms here will participate.

Envisioned by project chairman Pat Grace of Spears Ford Co. is a check lane through which autoists will drive for a free inspection of lights, wipers, mufflers, horn, belts and brakes.

Those meeting minimum requirements will be issued a sticker. Those below minimums will be given a check list showing what repairs or adjustments are recommended. No part of the program makes mandatory requirements of the motorists, Grace emphasized.

The exact dates and the location will be announced later, Grace said.

The program, carrying the label of The Lemon Grove Highway Safety Committee, was started by this newspaper. Don Johns, chairman of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce Merchants Division was named temporary chairman at a meeting Friday. Following explanation of the project Johns retired as Grace was selected to head the Committee up.

The California Highway Patrol will aid in setting up the program, Officer John Annis said earlier.

Grace named Martin P. Heil Marty's Mufflers; Asst. Fire Chief Fred Dixon, John Dail an insurance broker and Don Johns to an action committee.

Others participating in the initial meeting were Rolla Hamilton, Molly Mouillesseaux, Clarence Scheidle, Norman Flannery, Fire Chief Pappy Hensley, Dave Rutter, Dick Canfield, and the members of the action committee.

All persons in the automotive industry are invited to participate in another meeting to be scheduled for later this month, Grace said.

Announcement will be made of this meeting later.

SAN DIEGO (CNS) — A special use permit for a 132-unit retirement home was granted Friday to the Evangelical Convent Church of America for property between Concepcion and Kempton on San Carlos st., in La Presa.

Jesse E. Bailey, spokesman for the church, said that the first segment of the church's master plan was for a $150,000 unit in the center of the 9.8 acres near Sweetwater Lake. Total cost will be more than one million dollars.

The commission allowed the church to postpone development and improvement of Concepcion until the full project was started.

Bailey told the commission that he was trying to buy up property on the east side of Concepcion so that the development could be extended.

The permit granted Friday will ultimately allow 132 units with a maximum of 184 beds.

An overheated heater damaged the interior of a Lemon Grove business building the second time in two years, an investigator for the L.G. Fire Department reported.

The heater, at the Highlander, 7865 Broadway, did approximately $50 damage to a balcony Friday. A similar amount of damage was caused by the same heater two years ago, the Department noted.

A fire was extinguished soon after midnight Tuesday when Deputy Sheriff Hal Johnson turned in an alarm when he found a fire burning in a truck belonging to the Trico Flooring Co. at North and Imperial.

ATTORNEY PLEADS INSANITY, FAILS TO APPEAR FOR HEARING

SAN DIEGO (CNS) — Thomas T. Crittenden, a La Mesa attorney, who failed to appear for a sanity hearing in Superior Court was picked up by police at his home Tuesday evening and taken to the County Psychiatric Hospital.

Crittenden was examined by court appointed doctors Friday and has been certified for commitment to a state mental hospital. The court hearing must come first, however, and Crittenden is entitled to a jury trial before he can be committed.

The matter arose when the 57-year-old lawyer pleaded not guilty to the charge of petty theft in El Cajon Municipal Court. He is accused of stealing $1.01 of material from a La Mesa store on Dec. 29. He also pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity.

The criminal proceedings have been stayed.

Crittenden, 8015 Fairview, was once known as a leading opponent of parking meters. He even went to jail because of this opposition.

A new court hearing has been set for Thursday at 9:15.

Camp Fire Girls Kick-off Annual Sale of Peanuts

The big day for more than 5,000 San Diego County Camp Fire Girls is Friday, Jan. 17. It is kick-off day for their annual peanut sale with this year's goal set at 100,000 packages of toffee peanuts. The sale will continue through Feb. 2.

Everything is ready, according to Emery Morrison, general chairman of the event. Delivery of the nuts has been made to the many distribution centers in the County. Leaders have picked up the number of cartons which the girls themselves determined they would be responsible for. Special selling locations have been staked out, and the enthusiasm among the Camp Fire members is running high.

When the sale begins, Blue Birds, Camp Fire Girls, Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls and Horizon Club members alike will be their best to convince the San Diego public that to appease their sweet tooth is absolutely the best idea ever. The package features an assortment of three flavors of toffee peanuts and sells for $1.00.

Proceeds from the sale will be used primarily for capital improvements of camping facilities in the Cuyamacas and in Balboar Park.

La Mesa City Manager Tells Men's Club New Sales Tax Law Boon To Incorporation

Industrial development is no longer a measurement of incorporation feasibility Glenn Kendall, manager of the City of La Mesa, told the Lemon Grove Men's Club Friday.

"The old adage that a city shouldn't be formed without sufficient industrial tax base is not longer true," he reported.

Kendall, who was assistant to the manager when Downey was incorporated said the Uniform Sale Tax and the Community Services Act have made incorporation more popular than before.

Return of part of sales tax money to the city from which it is collected provides funds formerly hoped for from industrial developments. The Community Services Act permits cities to obtain services on a contract basis for larger entities. Capital outlay is averted.

In any event, residential areas don't pay the way in incorporated cities, new or old, he added.

Other points made by Manager Kendall is that La Mesa "has no designs on Lemon Grove" when he was asked whether La Mesa would attempt to annex the area, and that an educated guess on the cost of an election for incorporation would be about $8,000 today.

Clayton Brace, vice president and general manager of KOGO tv and radio, will be speaker this Friday.

Brace, last year, returned from a two-year tour of duty in Beirut, Lebanon, where he represented Life-Time Broadcasting interest. He traveled extensively in the Middle East and Europe for Time-Life's International Broadcasting Division.

The Men's Club meet every Friday at noon at Michael's and all men are welcome to attend

Keep School Control Local

In some states all schools in large counties and areas are consolidated under centralized direction. This has happened in West Virginia and Nevada.

In these states the countywide boards made up of individuals from widely scattered areas are remote from the parents and citizens most closely concerned with education of the children.

Effective communication and control has largely been lost. With ineffective boards, more and more of the direction of education is centralized in the state capital.

This has happened in Utah where the state has acquired the sole right to determine the salaries and working conditions for teachers throughout the entire state.

The above is a small segment of an extremely wide-ranging report given by K. S. Haussler, immediate past president, California School Boards Association at the U. of California's Conference on Education.

His discussion was on three levels, all inter-related. One intriguing level was "The Struggle for Power by Various Organizations". As many of us know, that struggle is virile and constant. Only local people can keep control of their schools local, while those who would rule set up organizations for encouraging the merging of smaller school districts into larger ones. Their arguments sound logical until the true measurement is made. That measurement is the amount of local control that is lost as the management becomes remoter.

Those who are interested in the size, shape and control of the local school district will find it profitable to attend the meeting of the Community Study Committee on School District Organization here. Dr. Norman Wollitz, a Lemon Grove resident who is principal of a San Diego school, is chairman

Spring Valley School Bond Election Set

Spring Valley residents will be asked to support a combined state and local bond issue for $5 million for school construction in March.

The election was set for March 31 on the recommendation of Glenn Murdock, superintendent of the La Mesa-Spring Valley school district.

Dr. Ted Dixon, associate superintendent, told the board the $2.9 million bond proposal would not require a raise in local taxes. A $2.1 million state loan will be attempted.

The funds will be used for five elementary schools, additions to Parkway Junior High, a new junior high school in La Presa, a library addition to the education center in La Mesa, an addition to Dale Elementary in La Mesa plus site development and the new sites.

An election in 1962 failed to carry. In 1958 district voters approved a $2.4 million bond issue and a $3.2 state loan.

Apartments Planned For Broadway-Mass.

SAN DIEGO (CNS) — John Holt and Marjorie McLurken were granted apartment house zoning Friday for seven acres on Mass. ave. near Broadway, Lemon Grove.

The Planning Commission approved R-3, multiple-family residential uses.

Charles Decker, of the Percy Goodwin Co., said the plans were to build four-plexes on the property.

The original request had been for R14, which allows apartments up to four stories in height, but Decker said this would not be needed.

There were no objections to the plan, but residents along Florine dr., which will be connected to a street through the apartment development, wanted assurance that more drainage problems would not be created by the project.

Christian Science Lecturer Here Says Man's Thoughts Determine His Experience

"We can't escape our own thinking"—it affects everything else in our life, said a Christian Science lecturer here on Saturday.

"Our thought determines our experience," he said, and "each one of us must face up to the responsibility for the content of his own thinking."

Once we realize this fact, it makes "inescapeable demands" upon us, he noted. But it also "presents great possibilities." Through prayer, "we can bring our thinking into accord with God's harmonious law and know His healing power in our daily living."

William Milford Correll of the Chistian Science Board of Lectureship was the speaker. The lecture was sponsored by the Lemon Grove Christian Science Society and was presented in the Masonic Temple. The title was "Your Thinking Determines Your Experience."

The material body and its environments are "projections of our thinking or consciousness," said Mr. Correll.

And it is now being generally recognized, he said, that "emotional states - - resentment jealousy, fear - - are the essential causes of many physical difficulties."

Any real change in our life must begin with a "change in our thinking."

This basic point "stands out through the Scriptures," said the lecturer said. In the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus laid great stress on the individual's thinking. He spoke of guarding against anger and hatred, of loving our enemies, forgiving those who trespass against us, of being faithful, trustworthy, honest, merciful, and pure."

"The important thing for us in finding the way of Christ is to understand that the trouble is not in things, people. or in circumstances—but in thought," said the lecturer. Then we won't waste time blaming others.

"The Christ is always speaking to the human consciousness; and he who listens can hear and be healed."

The lecturer told of how one man was completely healed of what had been diagnosed by company physicians as a malignant throat condition. With the help of a Chritian Science practitioner, the man overcame his fear and began to gain a better understanding of God's power and love for man," according to Mr. Correll. Two weeks later, another examination by company physicians showed no trace of the condition.

"The only incurable situation is when a man won't change his thinking," the lecturer commented.

3-Month Term Given Woman Whose Car Kills Child

SAN DIEGO (CNS) — Mrs. Mary Gwendolyn Drummond, 37, 8970 Switzer dr., Spring Valley, has been given six months in the county jail as a condition of five years probation for traffic manslaughter.

Mrs. Drummond admitted striking and killing Mark Lowell Hopkins, 6, 8651 Lamar st., with her car. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Hopkins and a student at Bancroft school.

On Mrs. Drummond's plea of guilty to manslaughter, charges of felony drunken driving, violation of the basic speed law and driving on the left-hand side of the roadway were dismissed.

The accident occurred on Lamar st. between Sweetwater rd. and Central ave. The investigating officer wrote:

"The boy was walking west on the south edge of the road, facing the oncoming traffic. The defendant's car, going west and completely on the wrong side of the road, hit him from the rear. The impact knocked him out of his shoes, and he was dragged some 81 feet west of the point of impact . . . the speed of the car was estimated at 40 miles per hour in the 25 mile per hour zone."

The boy's spine was completely cut in two.

Mrs. Drummond told her probation officer that she did not feel drunk when she left home to go pick up her husband in Lemon Grove. She admitted drinking some wine.

T.B. Tests To Be Given To Eighth Grade Children

Arrangements for administration of tuberculin skin tests to eighth graders in public, parochial, and private schools will be made at a meeting of school principals, nurses, and representatives of parents' organizations at Ballantyne School, El Cajon, at 2 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 21.

John S. Rhoades, president of the Tuberculosis and Health Association of San Diego, said the program, financed by local Christmas Seal contributions, will be conducted throughout the county for the second time and probably will start next month.

The recently developed procedure, called the TINE test, produces a reaction if tuberculosis germs have entered the body at some time. Volunteer physician-nurse teams will arminister it.

"A positive reaction does not necessarily mean there is a case of active tuberculosis," Rhoades said, "But it does mean the person has been exposed and should be given further medical study, including a chest x-ray."

State Wage Earners To Get Refund From Insurance Premiums

More than $5 million will be refunded in 1964 to wage earners who overpaid their disability insurance premiums last year and who apply for their refunds by June 30, State Employment Director Albert B. Tieburg said recently.

Approximately 4.5 million California wage earners were covered by non-occupational disability insurance in 1963, and paid one per cent of their first $4,600 in wages for this special insurance.

Persons who worked for two or more employers in a year may have had too much deducted for this purpose because each employer, as required by law, makes a withholding for disability insurance.

When the wage earner's total of withholdings for this purpose exceeds $46 for the year, he becomes entitled to a refund of the excess.

Such refunds, however, are not automatic. Persons entitled to them must file the necessary application with the Department of Employment.

Application forms are available at any of the Department's offices.

Journalism Society Books Globetrotters For School Aid Fund

Those internationally-famous Harlem Globetrotters, who make news when they don't play before a capacity audience, will play two games, Feb. 5-6, at Cal Western's Golden Gym in Point Loma.

Their appearance here is sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society. President Kenneth C. Riley said proceeds will go to the society's scholarship fund, as it has the past two years. The society now has more than $5,000 available to worthy journalism students at local colleges.

The 'Trotters' opponents will be the Atlantic City Sea Gulls, owned and coached by Louis "Red" Klotz, the former Villanova University "Mighty Mite" and a pro star for many years.

Half-time entertainment will be provided by the Peg-Leg Bates troupe.

Tickets are $3 for adults, $2 for children.

They will go on sale Jan. 25, from noon to 7 p.m. at the Globetrotter Box Office, 954 Third ave., S.D., or can be ordered by mail from Sigma Delta Chi, Box 1923, La Jolla. Check and self-addressed envelope must accompany each order, Reiley said.

More than 7,000 persons turned out for their 1963 appearances, Reiley pointed out, and an additional 1,200 people were turned away.

Unequal Assessments Costing Schools Money Homeowners Report

San Diego County school districts could collect more than 23 million dollars additional annual public revenue if all property in the county were assessed at an equal ratio, Statewide Homeowners Association said this week.

San Diego Unified School District could collect more than seven million dollars of this, according to a survey cited by the association.

Preliminary reports of the survey of school financing in the state, sponsored by Statewide Homeowners Association under a grant from an educational foundation, deal with San Diego County. The complete report, which will deal with nine different counties, will be available about Feb. 15.

A summary of the findings states that homes and improved commercial properties in San Diego County are assessed from 20 to 25 per cent of market value, but that suburban acreage and poorly improved property is assessed generally at only from 1% 15% of market value.

The study related the actual selling price of 122 parcels to the latest assessment, and then projected these figures to city and county based on Census Bureau estimates of the amount of vacant land in the area, and the report's own estimate of the amount of poorly improved property.

The report says, "there is ample evidence that local financing is adequate to meet school needs if the property tax, which has been the mainstay of local school support, is administered in accordance with state constitutional provisions."

The report also states "unequal assessments have placed an unfair burden on most of the homeowners of property with high levels of capital development."

John Nagy, president of Statewide Homeowners Association, said the survey was undertaken at the suggestion of members of the Legislature, and is being conducted by Resources Research with a staff of five headed by Roy Davidson. Davidson was formerly on the research staff of the National Education Association, Washington, D.C.

Nagy pointed out that some property in San Diego County is now being reassessed after eight years.

Dear Editor:

Here is a note to Governor Brown, who says that he thinks Barry Goldwater will be a good choice for the Republicans — because it will now be demonstrated that the Conservatives are definitely a minority bloc in California:

"Dear Governor: If your opinion is correct, which is doubtful, we'd still rather be a dynamic pro-American minority than part of a snafued socialistic majority."

Girl Scout Chatter

by Mary D. Giacinto

For December, our hats go off to Mrs. Mickie Sides' Girl Scout troop No. 1638. They packed food boxes for the needy, decorated Sweetwater Lodge Clubhouse for the residents party, and then along with another troop gave joy to the surrounding area with their Christmas caroling. It's that kind of enthusiasm we all enjoy. That isn't all — they enjoyed a cookout at Eucalyptus Park on Jan. 4 and are looking forward to flag presentations on Jan. 25 at the same park.

At the Girl Scout neighborhood meeting Jan. 15, Mary Hall was unanimously elected to her third term as Lemon Grove neighborhood chairman.

We were glad to welcome the Monterey Heights and Vista La Mesa Girl Scouts into the Lemon Grove District. Mrs. Hall is proud to report that the Lemon Grove Girl Scout District now has 31 troops. Each troop has five leaders which gives a total of more than 150 women working with our Girl Scouts here.

The big annual meeting of the Girl Scout Council will be Jan. 21 at 9:30 a.m. at Cinema "21" in Mission Valley. It is always of special interest for those interested in scouting to attend.

Lemon Grove is proud of its Girl Scouts.

of the meeting to be held at the L.G. Education Center Wednesday evening at 7:30.

The members are obeying the law. The legislature made it mandatory that such meetings be held in various school districts and a report of their findings returned so that they may be studied at state level.

It is our belief that such urgings were sponsored by those who would gain more control of our schools at the state level. It is part of the "Struggle for Power".

Your voice will be mighty important in the decisions reached by this Committee. Make your voice heard.

D.A. Says There's Fraud In Welfare

The County Board of Public Welfare, always buttressed by the support of the State Welfare Department, responded well to the public needling given them during the past months by District Attorney Don Keller, decided this week the time had come to talk it over with him.

Welfare, as many of us have come to learn, is one of the most autonomous of the state's myriad bureaucracies. Welfare not only makes its own guidelines but it operates secretly.

We remember when the L.G. Co-ordinating Council wanted to set up a helping organization a year ago when the economy was at low ebb. The Council offered to supply food, clothing and other necessities to local folk in a financial jam while waiting for relief organizations to take over.

Representatives of Welfare stated flat out that there is no one who couldn't get public aid the same day "if they let us know before 3 o'clock". "Amateurs interferring make our jobs harder," the Council was told.

Keller had told the Lemon Grove Men's Club in a speech during the holidays that his office was prosecuting more than 100 welfare felony complaints of fraud in the $10,000 to $20,000 categories at that time.

The district attorney's welfare watch-dog unit, established by the County Board of Supervisors, has long charged that the Welfare Department does not cooperate with investigators assigned to welfare fraud cases.

Homer Detrich, welfare director and welfare board secretary said the DA's watch-dog unit had only uncovered ten cases of alleged fraud in two years. He said that 4,300 families with 13,000 children are receiving aid.

Detrich is reported to have said, "If cases of fraud are not being found, maybe the unit is no longer justified".

It seems to us that if welfare had nothing to hide it would welcome a watch-dog unit to back up that condition.

The state association of County Supervisors in a policy announcement this week said that counties no longer have the ability to continue financing the most liberal welfare program in the nation.

We say that welfare as it now is legislated is wicked and if Mr. Detrich is able to get the watch-dog unit out of the way it will open the door for much more fraud than the too-high percentage that exists today.

Rest Homes Take a Lot Away

There's another retirement home going up here.

This one is a 132-unit project in Spring Valley. Aleardy abuilding are other large ones in Lemon Grove — one on Massachusetts and another on Broadway.

Never let it be said that we are opposed to these developments. No other civilization has provided so much comfort and care for its elderly folk. How can you knock that?

The grandmas and grandpas of this era are more entitled to comfort and rest than others of any other generation because they have gone through an age in which one revolution followed another. Almost nothing had a quality of permanance about it for grandpa and grandma. Think of the many newer things that were developed during the time of grandparents. Radio, television, passenger planes, power tools, power household equipment, and other commonplace things came into popularity as they were maturing.

No one will disagree that we should make it as easy as possible on the older folks, but, alas, there is a sad loss by losing grandparents to retirement facilities.

It takes them out of circulation.

Few are the adults today who have not profited by close contact with the parents of our parents. Grandparents could listen better than parents. They appear to be less harried. They were sympathetic and understanding to the point that parents frequently accused them of "spoiling the children".

Tradition and custom were kept alive through grandparents.

So was the kindly approach to morality. We could talk it over with grandma and grandpa where often the spectre of a licking would result when we discussed the same thing with mom or pop.

And now they are building "cages" for the older folks. They'll have rest and comfort, to be sure. We'll be able to visit them whenever we want. But they are being taken away from us just when they have the time to help mold the character of junior.

The world will not be a better place just because society has dreamed up the rest home as a boon to the wonderful folk of declining years,

WOMAN'S CLUB

Members of the Spring Valley Woman's Club will meet at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 22, at the Chamber of Commerce Building, Memory Lane, Spring Valley, for a pot luck luncheon. The business meeting will start at 1 p.m.

Those attending are to bring a food dish and their own table service. Coffee and tea will be served by the social committee.

Everyone is asked to bring a package to exchange after the business meeting.

Eighty-seven years ago one of the world's first broadcasts took place — and it wasn't over a radio. It happened November 5, 1877, when three telephones were placed on the stage of the San Francisco Grand Opera House and wires were strung to five locations in the city. The opera "Mignon" was clearly heard over a phone at each point.

Although this "broadcast" covered only a few city blocks, it amounted to one of the first steps telephone people took toward network communications. Nowadays, phone lines help bring you broadcasts and telecasts from all over the world.

A modern home Interphone system lets you take and make calls from different spots in the house, talk room-to-room, and even answer the doorbell.

Whether it's true or not, here is a story that shows a lady's ingenious use of the phone in ordering snap beans from a grocer. "Could you bring one to the phone?" she asked. "I want to make sure they're fresh."

The grocer did.

"Now," she asked, "would you please break it?"

He did, and she clearly heard the resounding pop.

"Fine," said the lady, "send me three pounds."

(I'll bet you, too, have found unusual uses for your phone, in addition to the everyday ways it saves you time and trouble.)

Clock fast? Watch slow? Check our time-of-day service. The number is listed in the front pages of your phone book.

This phone was so charred in a fire its dial had melted, and the customer had to use her other phone to make calls. But the damaged phone worked so well in receiving calls, she used it for four months before calling in to have it replaced.

This shows the toughness and reliability built into all our telephone equipment. But I do want to mention that if your telephone should ever need any kind of repair, give us a call.

Joe King, or another of our repairmen, will fix it fast at no extra cost to you.

Mount Miguel's Annual To Have An Informal Style Editor Says

"We're trying to give Mil Memorias a face-lifting this year," said Joyce Hiner, editor-in-chief of Mount Miguel's annual.

"We are laying out the annual with the informality of a magazine," she said. Joyce has encouraged the editors to use candid shots where possible and this has given added problems to some editors. "We need more hours in the day so we can meet our deadlines!" groaned Sue Stivers, administrations editor. To comply with the central theme, Sue has been catching Miguel's teachers in their leisure activities at home. This has added a great deal of mileage for Sue and the staff photographers.

"An added problem this year is the paste-ups," Joyce said. Before this year the Mil Memorias' staff has sent its pictures and editorial work into Glendale and let the publishing company do the paste-ups. This year, however, they are sending their typing to Alhambra; when it's returned, they are laying out the editorial matter and pictures themselves. "This way saves us money besides giving us additional training," Joyce said.

To help editors meet their deadlines, there were numerous workshops during Christmas vacation. "I spent nineteen hours during the Christmas holidays at various workshops," Sue said At present the annual staff room is open two to three hours a night to help staff members get up-to-date with their work.

"Mil Memorias has a staff of twenty-seven this year. We pick our new members from people who submit applications in late April or early May and then the new members attend workshops during the summer to acquaint themselves with yearbook procedure," Joyce explained.

In addition to the thirteen editors on the staff there are six assistant-editors.

Each editor is responsible for the preliminary and final layout; the scheduling, labeling, and filing of pictures; the assignment or writing of copy, captions, and headlines; the typing of final copy; and the copy-reading of each page before it is turned over to the editor-in-chief and the advisor. "But even with all our confusion at the moment we'll meet our deadlines. We've left leeway for errors — in hopes there won't be any!" smiled Joyce as she thought of the finished product to come from her staff's labors.

EMPLOYMENT UP

California employment was at a record December total and the rate of unemployment fell to about the same level as a year ago, state agencies have reported.

At 6,531,000 in December, civilian employment was higher than in any previous December and up from a year ago by 163,000, or 2.6 per cent, according to Ernest B. Webb, Director of Industrial Relations.

The December-to-December increase, however, represente a further narrowing of the employment growth margin from the first part of 1963 when year-over-year percentage gains were 3½ per cent.

BUSINESS ACTIVITY

Southern California's business activity, which moved to new hights through most of 1963, ended the year by equaling the previous record level set in November, Harold Holsonback, Manager of Security First National Bank's College Grove Branch reported today.

As of December 27, the bank's business index was reported at 136.6, more than seven per cent over the correspoding period of 1962, Holsonback said.

In reviewing the Southland's economic progress during the past year, Security Bank's report said the highlight of 1963 was the increase in building activity, particularly residential construction. Total construction valuation approximated $4.5 billion, a 15 per cent gain over 1962.

NEW BANK HIGH

Security First National Bank's net operating earnings for the year ended December 31, 1963, were 5.8% above 1962 while total resources, loans, and deposits established new highs, Lloyd L. Austin, Chairman of the Board, reported today.

Net operating income for 1963 amounted to $28,592,667, compared with $27,030,077 in 1962. This was equivalent to $3.76 per share on 7,600,000 shares outstanding, against $3.56 per share a year ago after adjusting for a 1 for 16½ stock dividend.

Total resources continued to climb, and as of Dec. 31 were at a record year end level of $4,503,358,964. This compared with 1962's year end total of $4,301,925,186.

HANDBALL MEET

Saturday, Jan. 18, the La Mesa Recreation-Park Department will sponsor an open Handball Tournament for all boys 18 years and under. Those interested may contact Larry Cook or Bob Lucas Thursday night between 6:30 and 9:30 at the Helix Gymnasium.

MEMORIAL PROGRAM

Research into diseases of the heart and blood vessels was aided by 244 gifts in December to the memorial program of the San Diego County Heart Association, Dr. Paul H. Morton, president of the association, announced.

Tributes in the Spring Valley area were made in honor of Jane Clack and Emma A. Thomsen.

The San Diego County Heart Association increased its research grants by approximately $8,000 this year and a good part of this growth is a direct result of more memorial giving to the Heart Fund, Morton stated.

WORKSHOP PLANNED

A free one-day workshop for people planning to start businesses of their own is planned by the Small Business Administration.

The meeting will be at the San Diego Public Library, 8th and E streets, starting at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 28.

The purpose of the meeting is to help prepare those who have never owned and operated businesses of their own.

Extra Benefits Result From Excess Water Supply

by William E. Warne

(This is the third in a series of six articles on California water development by the director of the California State Department of Water Resources,who has administered resources development programs for state, federal and international government since 1935.)

Sacramento — The use of excess capacity in the Aqueduct Aqueduct under the agricultural water contracts will enhance the conservation benefits of the State Water Project.

The fact that the total efficiency of the project is being increased is sometimes overlooked in debates on the subject. Some have viewed the extension of the privilege of taking cheaper surplus waters by the irrigation farmers as simply assistance extended to agriculture.

Without debating the position of agriculture in our economy or the undoubted importance of the prosperity of the farmer to the public welfare, it can be demonstrated that the use of the surplus capacity in the early years of State Water Project facilities is a prime conservation objective of overriding importance.

If the principle of using surplus capacity had been followed from the start with the Colorado River Acquaduct, it would have been possible to save and store underground on the coastal plain of Southern California vast quantities of water that were wasted into the Gulf of California in the earlier years. Only in the past few years has the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California been delivering water to Orange County to help reduce ground water overdraft and restore ground water levels. If this had been done from the start, serious ground water problems might have been eased.

It is to the credit of the Metropolitan Water District and its water users that it did work out a method and in recent years has made a substantial contribution to a program of ground water overdraft management.

Ground waters and unseen reservoirs below the surface of the earth in which they exist, are both important resources. What a struggle it has been, for example, in Southern California to find good reservoir sites. Castaic, Cedar Springs and Perris sites, chosen for reservoirs of the State Water Project, bring us closer again to complete exhaustion of the possibility in many sections of Southern California of finding added places to build storage dams. Yet, great water projects desperately need reservoirs at the end of their canals and along reaches of their aqueducts to insure continuous service and economy and efficiency of operation.

Ground water reservoirs, though not as flexible as surface reservoirs, can be made to serve much the same purpose in operation of water projects. In addition, they have certain distinct advantages. For example, there is no loss of water from them through surface evaporation while five feet of water or more in a year may be lost off the entire surface of an exposed reservoir. This water that may have been herded around the State in canals and through pumping plants at considerable cost.

The preservation of ground water reservoirs and learning how to use them are both important. If a ground water basin is pumped so low that salt sea water enters it and spoils its capacity, it is effectively destroyed in much the same way that a surface reservoir may be filled up with silt. The useable capacity is occupied by a substance of no use.

Surplus capacity of the State's big aqueducts can and should be used to encourage use of ground water basins, both to store water that otherwise would simply run out to sea through the Golden Gate and to protect ground water reservoirs from destruction. These two conservation functions that can be made by the policy adopted.

It is important, too, that the new policy of sale of surplus water has reduced the cost of water for irrigation to the Kern County Water Agency to $14.80 per acre-foot in the early decades of operation and made it possible to market 1,000,000 acre-feet of water a year in Kern County.

Kern County has for many years been first, second, or third in farm production among California's 58 counties. Kern County has been overdrawing its ground waters by 700,000 acre-feet a year. With Kern County taking a large quantity of water from the California Aqueduct, costs to other water supply contractors in Southern California and the San Joaquin Valley are lessened. This is because of the cooperative plan and the enlarged sharing of common capital costs. It is cheaper for everyone to use the most economical large aqueduct jointly..

When Governor Brown approved the new policy on Sept. 7, he said:

"This gives us a practical answer to the problems of providing surplus water for agricultural use and reducing the average cost per acre-foot of irrigation water.

"Now we have achieved a way to use surplus water the California aqueduct can carry in its early years, before its full capacity is required to serve the needs of municipal, industrial and agricultural users."

The great utility that the State Water Project is becoming is made the more secure by the broadened base of its service. It is good to have the farmers of the San Joaquin Valley as well as the people of Southern California in the program.
